Special Programs

Kindergarten Consecration

The consecration ceremony marks the beginning of a child's formal Jewish study. It is a chance for our community to recognize and honor our youngest learners. Our kindergarten students are called up to the Bima where they recite the Sh'ma and are blessed by the clergy. They are presented with a certificate and a special gift to commemorate the ceremony.

PreK-3rd Grade Sefer Safari

Parents join their students for this morning of learning, writing, and noshing. Families work together to create a book that is meaningful and personal. This annual program promotes the reading of Jewish books and the telling of Jewish stories for our young students. Sefer is the Hebrew word for book, and this event will surely be a "Reading Safari (Adventure)."

B'yachad

B'yachad means "Together."

At different times throughout the year, parents are invited to join their student as the school gathers as a community to learn and create together.

Religious School Committee

The Temple Chai Religious School Committee is made up of dedicated parents who meet monthly with Amanda Campbell and Lea Plosker to examine issues, create and complete projects, and help make an already amazing school even better.

3rd/4th Grade Shabbaton

The 3rd and 4th grade Shabbaton is mini-retreat that gives students a unique opportunity to bond with each other, experience Shabbat with friends, connect with amazing high school and adult role models, and gain a new level of comfort with their synagogue

4th-7th Grade Retreat

Students will spend 2 days celebrating Shabbat in a beautiful setting at Camp Stein in Prescott, AZ. The retreat helps our students strengthen their community. It provides a positive Jewish environment in which we can live our values of torah, tradition, Hebrew, and Israel. For these reasons and more, the retreats are an integral part of the school year. The programming is fun, social, interactive, and educational. Together with teachers and clergy, our students spend the weekend singing, dancing, playing games, challenging themselves, praying, thinking, reflecting, doing arts and crafts, and more.

Family Retreat

Join other Temple Chai families for a weekend of relaxation and fun in Heber, AZ. We spend three days playing and praying together in a peaceful setting with our clergy and families with kids of all ages.

Tikkun Olam Day

This special day gives our families the opportunity to volunteer at various organizations around our community. We will participate in a morning of Tikkun Olam, repairing the world and helping to make it a better place.

Kol Chai Youth Choir for 3rd-7th Graders

Our older students can join Cantor Wolman for an hour after school on Sundays to create music and friendships together.

Ellen Woodnick Mitzvah Mall

The Ellen Woodnick Mitzvah Mall is run by our 4th grade students and families. This project is intended to promote G'milut Chasadim (acts of loving kindness) and to provide a meaningful gift-giving alternative. The Mitzvah Mall is a fair of non-profit organizations, similar to a vendor fair. Our students and families "shop" at local and national charities to "purchase" gift certificates that are donations to the charities.

PB and Fluff

Every year on Christmas Eve, the Temple Chai community comes together to assemble thousands of peanut butter and fluff sandwiches which are then donated to St. Vincent DePaul Kitchen.

TCTY

Temple Chai Temple Youth (TCTY) provides high school students with a chance to gather in a social atmosphere while celebrating Jewish events and performing acts of Tikkun Olam.

Madrichim Leadership Program

Madrichim are teacher assistants. Our teens can come and work with the younger students in our religious school on the Sundays that they do not have Chai School class. Teens help with teaching, supervising, role-modeling, and helping our young students engage in Jewish education.

Temple Chai Religious School Philosophy

Students will experience Judaism in soulful and spiritual manner.

At Temple Chai, our students are given the opportunity not just to learn about Judaism, but to experience it through many different lenses. In order to foster a lifelong connection to Judaism, they are given chances to experience what Judaism feels like in their souls, what it looks like in their hands, what it tastes like, what it smells like, and what it sounds like. Our students “do Judaism.” It is not enough to learn about mitzvot. They are performing mitzvot. It is not enough to learn about what food we eat on holidays. They are preparing and eating the food. We do not assume that our students will open their hearts to Judaism simply because their parents do. The magic happens when students discover their Jewish identity within their own human identity. We facilitate this by providing them with learning opportunities that are experiential and that appeal to learners of all varieties. The learners, not the teachers nor the texts, are the center of our educational goals. We focus on hands-on discoveries, technology, and student-led discussions, not just in the lower grades, but with our older students as well. Experiencing the living, breathing culture of Judaism allows us to feed the souls of our students, not just their minds.

Students will develop a community with their peers.

In order to foster a Jewish community among our students, we give them ample opportunities to form friendships. We give them the chance to exchange ideas and share opinions. We focus on relationships, not just encounters. Students at Temple Chai are given a chance not just to learn side-by-side with their peers, but to learn from their peers. The forming of relationships is prioritized so our students connect to their Judaism in a way that is meaningful and lasting. Students are given the time, space, and structure to form relationships. Our classes are taught in a way that fosters friendships and socialization so their experiences here are relevant and valuable to them. We are proud to make Temple Chai a place where children have the opportunity and the guidance to build strong, lasting friendships. Along with teaching curriculum, teachers focus on lessons and activities that allow friendships to form. Although it follows many variant models, both structured and unstructured socialization time occurs every time we gather together.

Students will learn to read Hebrew and recite prayers that connect them both to the past and to Jewish people around the world.

By teaching our students to decode Hebrew letters and recite prayers and blessings in Hebrew, we are providing them with a link to their ancestors, to their community, and to future generations. In order to make this process successful and enjoyable for students, we begin to establish a strong Hebrew foundation in our 2nd and 3rd grade classrooms, teaching our young students who are eager and able to learn. Then, when our students reach 4th, 5th, and 6th grade they are more confident and our teachers are able to raise their expectations. Also, to help our students learn, we give them more independence and base their Hebrew studies on what their ability is as a Hebrew reader. They are encouraged to acquire their Hebrew knowledge at a pace that is comfortable and safe for them. Our Hebrew classrooms are student-centered places where learners are encouraged to work at their own pace at a level that suits them best. The classroom is a place where students can work and bond with their peers. Advanced readers and struggling readers alike work side-by-side on material that is appropriate for their level. Hebrew is a gateway into a deep, empowering, engaging modern and ancient culture and the more knowledge we give our students in this area, the stronger will be their bond to their culture and to Israel.
